For the first time, Palisades Center will be hosting a non-profit fair co-sponsored by Leinad Business Consulting. Working with over seventy-five non-profit organization on an annual basis, Palisades Center invites the local community to meet-and-greet their community partners.

“Non-profit organizations play a vital role in the social and economic viability of any community. Throughout the years, many of these organizations operated on the premise that there was no need for public education campaigns, but with a steady rise in the need for social services and dwindling government resources, it has become critical for them to ensure that the public is aware of the services they provide. At Leinad Business Consulting we are committed to helping nonprofit organizations fulfill their mission through effective development strategies,” said Founder of Leinad Business Consulting, Shawnette Henry.

“Every day, I work with a different non-profit organization and there is something special about all the groups I work with. I was ecstatic when Ms. Henry presented this opportunity to our team at Palisades Center to tie in with our #PalisadesCares campaign and give back even further to our non-profit partnerships,” said Assistant Marketing Director, Catherine Horvath.
